Subject: I'm in town

Hi David-

I am in town (London area) staying with [REDACTED] in Bromley. My original plan was to visit with his family and try to give you a call for a pub stop one night but I think that you are probably tied up with all of the various things happening. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Returning thru London either 30th or 31st to head back home. I was originally going to visit [REDACTED] but that went up in flames with the quick notification of departure to the sandbox

I may try to call you before I depart just to say hi and make sure you are doing ok with your "notarity". Just what everyone needs.. but you know that you have lots of friends here and in the US who know and trust you so don't let the bureaucracy get you down.. seems as though someone in the food chain is always pointing fingers whether they are justified or not!

At any rate I may head to the sandbox myself [REDACTED] We will see as I have other obligations and can only spend 4-5 weeks [REDACTED] Because of that they may decide that I should not go...it has been an on again off again thing ...more off than on [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] I keep telling him that we have done what we could and if it gets messed up at least they will not be pointing fingers at us and at 70 maybe it is not the best idea to be wandering out in the desert (though I can't imagine doing the whole thing with some kind of input from him at some point!).

Well enough babble. I will try to call later

All the best.
