

Loftus, Paul (L&DR-LON)

From: David Kelly [REDACTED]
Sent: 22 March 2003 17:25
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: RE [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
Send the message up the chain [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Regards,

David

-----Original Message-----

From: [REDACTED] [mailto:[REDACTED]]
Sent: 22 March 2003 09:27
To: David Kelly; [REDACTED]
Subject: [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

2B) 'Blix: Iraq unlikely to use chemical, germ weapons'
CNN
March 19, 2003

<http://www.cnn.com/2003/WORLD/meast/03/19/sprj.irq.blix.saddam/index.html>

"UNITED NATIONS (CNN) -- Iraq is unlikely to use chemical or biological weapons to defend itself from a U.S.-led invasion because world opinion would turn against it, chief U.N. weapons inspector Hans Blix told CNN Wednesday. 'If they have any -- and still, that's a big if -- I would doubt that they would use it because a lot of countries and people in the world are negative to the idea of waging war,' Blix said. 'If the Iraqis were to use any chemical weapons, then I think the public opinion around the world would immediately turn against Iraq, and they would say, as well, that the invasion was justified.'"

COM 1410139